The fascinating northern stretch of this fabulous island sees some of the most renowned beaches, among which is the La Maddalena Archipelago. This is a marine-protected National Park established in 1994, comprising seven outstanding islands such as Caprera, Budelli and Spargi, and numerous isolotti, where nature still sets the tone.

archaeology & architecture

Let's discover a new and unusual Sardinia. An island rich in monuments which testify to the presence of ancient peoples and civilizations.

Among the first to discover the magnificent scenery that this island hides were the Nuragic "tribes" who, between 1800 and 1000 BC, inhabited this land. To learn more about this civilization, just visit the many Nuragic villages scattered in the region.

tradition & crafts

Traditions certainly make Sardinia a proud region, possessing a rich handicraft heritage that reflects its historical and cultural stratification. Jewelry, tapestries, ceramics, baskets, knives, carpets... From the perfection of ancient art, you can admire unique pieces of extraordinary beauty. The same attention and respect for traditions is strongly felt in the many festivals.

green

Pevero Golf Club is located in Costa Smeralda, between Cala di Volpe Bay and the Gulf of Pevero. In the late 1960s, Prince Aga Khan thought the peninsula would be the ideal setting for the first golf course on the island. By 1972, his vision had come true when an 18-hole course was designed by the American golf-course architect Robert Trent Jones. It was so sensational that, six years later, it was chosen as the venue for the Italian Open. Pevero is considered by experts to be one of the world's most beautiful and challenging courses, where even the most experienced golfer will be put to the test.

It is classified in the 100 Top Golf Courses of the world.

It is like freedom itself.
